In collaboration with Arden, Danielle Nieves, a University of California graduate student in Costume Design, will be presenting on Helena Modjeska's costumes and their lasting impact.

Unlike other famous actresses of her time, Modjeska designed the majority of her costumes and became well known for her tastes in fashion. Audiences came to admire her costumes as much as her acting, and she took great care in cultivating outfits that struck a balance between historical accuracy and modern tastes, while staying true to her interpretation of the character.

Modjeska's innovative costumes influenced both public fashion and stage design, helping to cement her place as one of the most major stage icons of the 19th century. Please join us at Arden for a presentation and walk through as we explore Modjeska's career in costuming.

Please RSVP at Bradley.flynt@ocparks.com.
