Join us at Mason Regional Park for “Snakes 101,” to learn about snakes and the important role they play in our local ecosystem through fun crafts and activities! With spring now here, our slithering snake friends are beginning to emerge from their winter dens to warm themselves in the sun, and wander the hills in search of prey. They also provide food for many animals, from hawks to bobcats. Steve Bledsoe of Southwestern Field Herping Association will be on site to answer all of your “snakey” questions, along with some live snakes!

Online reservations are required prior to the event. Visit www.lagunacanyon.org/event/awakening-snakes/ for more details.

For Questions, call 949-497-8324 on weekdays or 949-923-2235 on weekends.
